

Vikan Classic series

has now become even more environmentally friendly

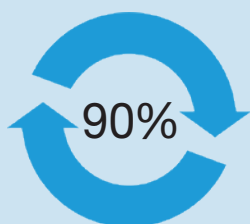

By using FSC®-certified wood and regenerated plastic in our Classic products, Vikan has taken an important step towards a lower carbon footprint for both our customers and our company.

On our website, we display an icon with two blue arrows and a number in the centre, indicating what percentage of the product's total net weight is made from regenerated plastic.

In our Classic range, we now use partially regenerated plastic in our products. Sustainability is important to Vikan, and we try to use as much regenerated or recyclable plastic as possible in our products, while still meeting our high quality and durability standards.

In addition to plastic, the Classic range consists primarily of wood. Here too, we have made the responsible choice and Vikan is therefore FSC certified (FSC C163353).

FSC contributes to 14 of the 17 UN Sustainable Development Goals and is the world's most ambitious global certification for responsible forest management and guarantees wood from well-managed forests.

All Vikan Classic wood products are FSC-labelled, so together with you as a customer, we help to ensure responsible forestry.

We closely monitor global developments in order to introduce environmentally friendly materials as early as possible. At the same time, we are working towards our goal of having all of our plastic products made entirely or partly from regenerated or recyclable material by 2030.

Why choose Vikan Classic?
